

Fresh Air in Freshwater

May 3, 2016

By Jennifer Fumiko Cahill and Mark Larson

Visitors enjoyed the trail through pasture and marshland, music, art and food at the grand opening of the Freshwater Farms Reserve nature trail on Sunday, May 1.

Missing the sun already? On Sunday, the grand opening of the Freshwater Farms Reserve nature trail, hosted by the Northcoast Regional Land Trust, drew crowds looking to bask in the sunshine along the newly minted paths. Along the 3/4-mile jaunt, with its interpretive signs and kayak and canoe launch, local artists posted up for plein air painting, capturing the landscape in view of passersby. Check out photographer Mark Larson's photos of the local color and colorists below. You'll forget all about the gray outside.

Slide show at: <http://www.northcoastjournal.com/AEBlog/archives/2016/05/03/fresh-air-in-freshwater>