Leo Stafnes completed his plein air painting of the celebration of the opening of the Freshwater Farms Reserve Nature Trail on a sunny Sunday afternoon in front of the historic Graham-Long Dairy Barn. Hundreds of nature preserve and history lovers streamed into the Kneeland Glen store for the grand opening. Folks hiked scenic and pastoral property on lands stitched together by the Northcoast Regional Land Trust in its goal to protect "wild and working landscapes." The celebration included live music, presentations on cows and Coho, and a community potluck.
